3.1.4 Account authenticity and identity confirmation

Case FRS2526-2.2 - SOCMINT investigation - username silentnomore24

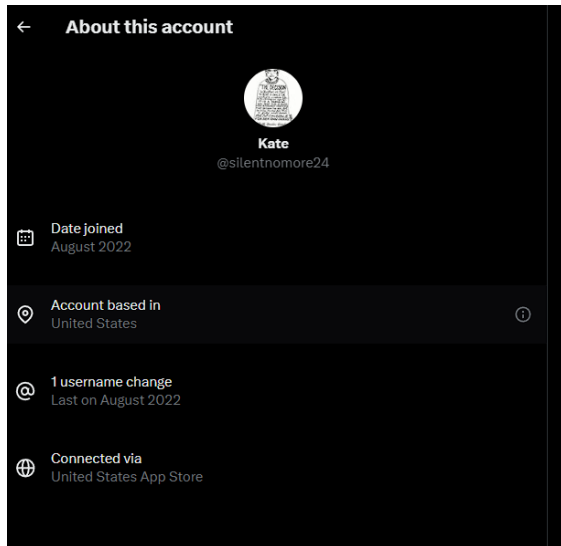

Date: 14-06-2026 Analyst: Bilal Hamdani

This analysis looks at the three candidate accounts found in step 3.1.3 (Twitter, TikTok, Snapchat). For each account we check if it looks real, and then compare them to see if they belong to the same person.

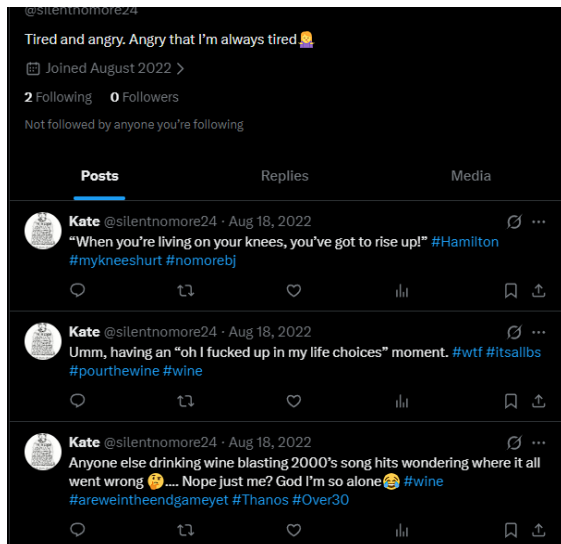

Twitter / X

Candidate account: Kate - @silentnomore24

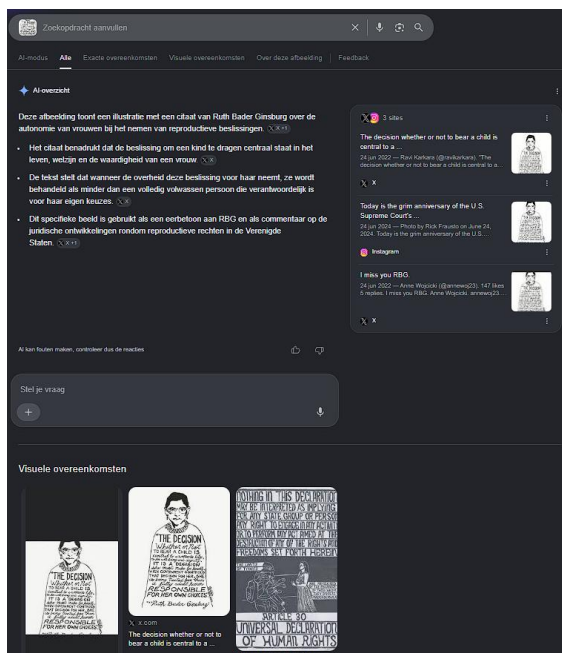

Signal	Observation
Account history (creation date, activity over time)	Account created in August 2022, with one username change last recorded in August 2022.
Profile picture	Quote graphic associated with Ruth Bader Ginsburg and reproductive rights commentary, reading "The decision whether or not to bear a child is central to a woman's life, to her well-being and dignity. It is a decision she must make for herself."
Bio / description	"Tired and angry. Angry that I'm always tired".
Location / region indicated	Account based in United States, connected via the United States App Store.
Linked accounts / websites	None mentioned.
Follower / following counts	2 following, 0 followers.
Posting frequency (consistent with real person?)	3 posts, all on 18 August 2022, referencing Hamilton, Avengers/Thanos, and general venting about life choices and wine. No activity since.
Bot / parody indicators present?	Account was used briefly and only on a single day in August 2022, with 2 following and 0 followers and no activity since. This is consistent with an account created and used for a short period rather than an actively maintained personal account.

Twitter / X - About this account: Kate, @silentnomore24, joined August 2022, account based in United States, 1 username change.

Twitter / X - profile and posts from 18 August 2022.

Reverse image search on the Twitter profile picture, showing it is a widely shared image referencing Ruth Bader Ginsburg and reproductive rights, also seen on other accounts such as @annewoj23.

Assessment

Not confirmed as belonging to the POI. The profile picture is a well-known political image about Ruth Bader Ginsburg and reproductive rights. A reverse image search shows it is used by many other accounts too, so it cannot prove who runs this account. It does suggest the account is interested in topics like reproductive rights.

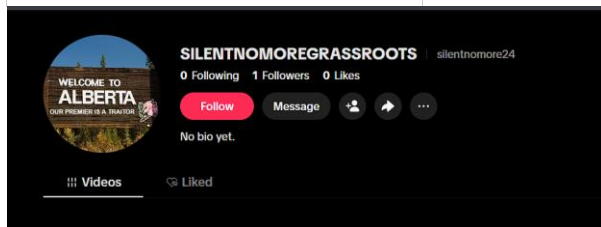

The account says it is based in the United States and connected via the US App Store, but this comes from the platform itself and has not yet been checked against the TikTok or Snapchat accounts. So far, no identifier matches across the three accounts.

TikTok

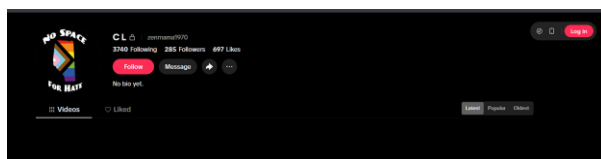

Candidate account: SILENTNOMOREGRASSROOTS (handle: @silentnomore24)

Signal	Observation
Account history (creation date, activity over time)	Unknown.
Profile picture	Image reading “Welcome to Alberta, our premier is a traitor”, set against a forest and road sign background.
Bio / description	No bio.
Location / region indicated	Not stated directly, but the profile picture references the Alberta premier, suggesting a possible connection to Alberta, Canada.
Linked accounts / websites	None linked.
Follower / following counts	0 following, 1 follower (zenmama1970), 0 likes.

Posting frequency (consistent with real person?)	No posts.
Bot / parody indicators present?	No clear bot or parody indicators, but the account has no posts, no bio, and no creation date visible, so authenticity cannot be properly assessed yet.

TikTok profile: display name SILENTNOMOREGRASSROOTS, handle silentnomore24, no bio, no posts, 1 follower.

TikTok follower zenmama1970 (display name CL), 285 followers, 3740 following, profile themed around an Alberta-shaped "no space for hate" logo.

Assessment

The TikTok handle is @silentnomore24, the same as Twitter and Snapchat. "SILENTNOMOREGRASSROOTS" is just the display name, not the handle. So the username silentnomore24 is now found on all three platforms. This is a stronger sign than before, but it is still only one identifier, not two separate ones.

The profile picture talks about the Alberta premier, which fits the protest theme of the case and might point to Alberta, Canada. This has not been checked against the other accounts yet. The one follower, zenmama1970, runs an activism account with an Alberta-shaped "no space for hate" logo, which fits the same theme, but their followers and connections do not overlap with Twitter or Snapchat. So far no identifier matches across accounts besides the shared username.

Snapchat

Candidate account: ZebrainZion - @silentnomore24

Signal	Observation
Account history (creation date, activity over time)	Not visible.
Profile picture	Bitmoji of a person of colour with dark curly hair, wearing an autumn outfit, standing in a forest with autumn leaves.
Bio / description	Not available.
Location / region indicated	Not available.
Linked accounts / websites	Not available.

Follower / following counts	Not available.
Posting frequency (consistent with real person?)	Not available.
Bot / parody indicators present?	Not available.

Snapchat profile: display name ZebraionZion, handle silentnomore24, Bitmoji in an autumn forest setting.

Assessment

Not confirmed as belonging to the POI. ZebraionZion could be a real name, which could later be searched on other platforms, but for now it is just a guess based on the username. The Bitmoji shows an autumn setting, which could later be compared to the season visible in the case media (pic4.jpg and the video), but this has not been checked yet.

The shared handle silentnomore24 is the same one already found on Twitter and TikTok and does not count as a second match.

Overall cross-account comparison

The table below lists identifiers found on more than one account and whether they consistently support that the accounts belong to the same person.

Identifier	Accounts where found	Independent? (yes/no, why)
Handle/username "silentnomore24"	Twitter, TikTok (handle, displayed name differs), and Snapchat. All three use the same handle.	No. This is the search term used to find these accounts, so it cannot show they belong to the same person, even though it is now found on all three platforms instead of two.
Profile pictures (Twitter, TikTok, Snapchat)	Not matching across accounts. Twitter uses a widely shared RBG/reproductive rights graphic (confirmed via reverse image search to appear on other unrelated accounts), TikTok uses an Alberta-themed graphic, Snapchat uses a Bitmoji. No shared or unique image found across the three.	No. The Twitter image is used by many other accounts too, so it cannot show who runs this account, even if it had matched something else.

TikTok follower "zenmama1970"	Checked against the followers and connections of the Twitter and Snapchat accounts. No overlap found, zenmama1970 does not appear on either account.	Not applicable. No matching connection found across accounts, so this does not link the accounts together.
Location indicators	Twitter: account based in United States (United States App Store). TikTok: profile picture references the Alberta premier (Canada). Snapchat: no location indicator.	No. United States and Alberta, Canada are different countries and this has not been explained yet. This is a contradiction, not a match, and needs more digging.

Conclusion

None of the three accounts can be confirmed as belonging to the POI yet. All three share the handle silentnomore24, but this is the search term used to find them, so it does not count as an independent match. No other identifier matches across the accounts so far. The location clues do not agree either: Twitter points to the United States, while TikTok points to Alberta, Canada.

Next steps: run a reverse image search on the TikTok and Snapchat profile pictures, and try to figure out why the US and Alberta location clues do not match. The email addresses found via IDCrawl could also be checked, though these may not actually belong to the account owner.
